Board Attorney Gerald Gex quickly came to the supervisors' aid to explain to the delegation, "Everything was blown out of proportion. This was just a start," said Gex. Gex explained the Board

Volunteer repair effort reset

BY RICHARD MEEK
Christmas in April will continue into May.

The community effort dedicated to helping the elderly repair their homes was hampered by rain last weekend, so president Basil Kennedy said work crews will be out again on Saturday. Volunteers were able to complete some interior work but the planned landscaping and painting had to be postponed.

"We worked on two of our houses that had inside work," Kennedy said. "We even got a little of the outside work done, but the conditions were less than optimal for painting and yardwork."

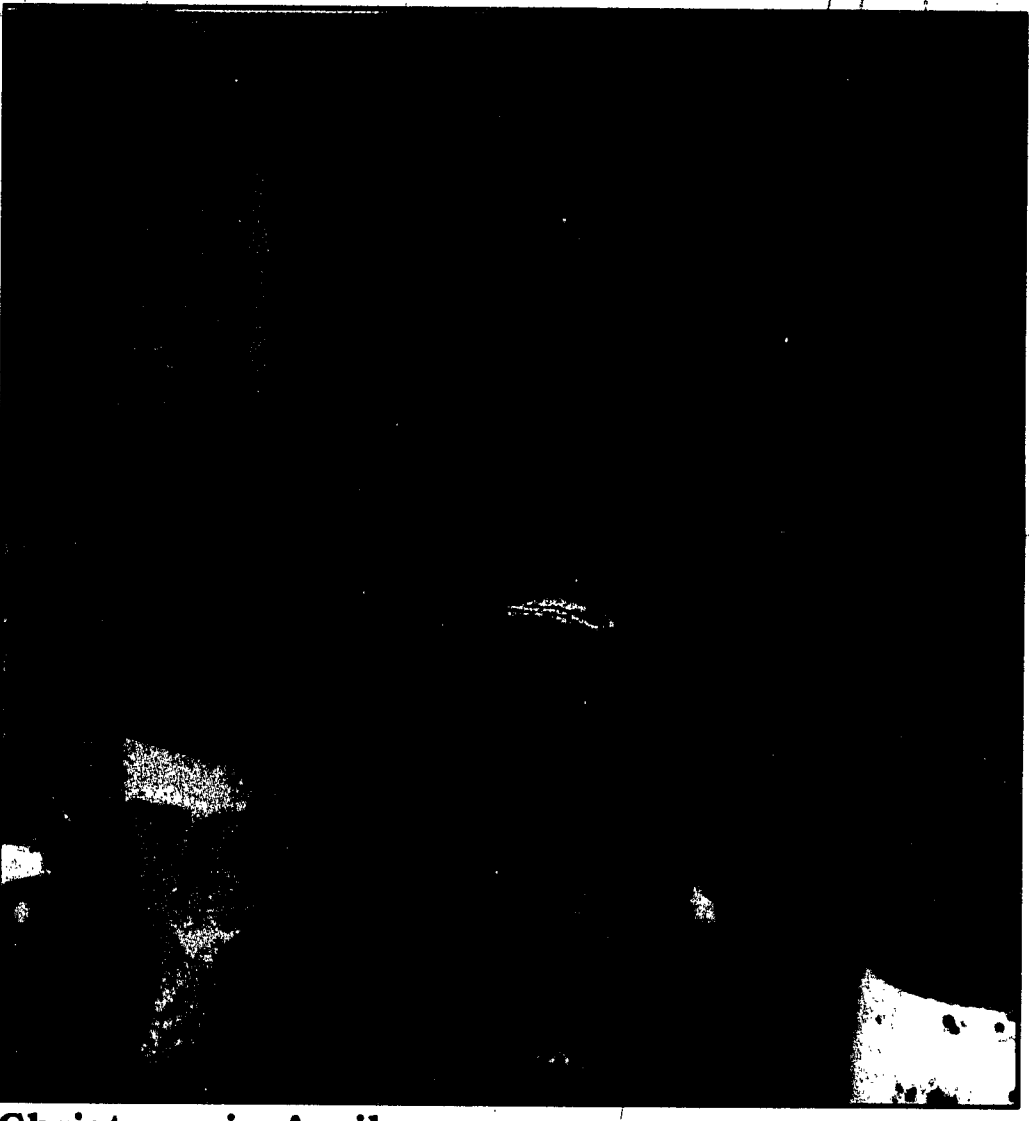

"The homeowners are elated at the work that has been done and can't wait for the finished project."

Repairs were scheduled on three homes, located at 6122 North Railroad Avenue in Clermont Harbor, 1003 St. Joseph St. in Waveland and 403 St. George St. in Bay St. Louis.

Volunteers from GE Plastics and other county citizens worked on two of the homes Saturday. Kennedy said Casino Magic employees also adopted a house, but much of the scheduled work was outside, so it has been rescheduled for this weekend.

Volunteers were also at work at the house in Waveland and work was rescheduled for the home in the Bay for this Saturday. (Echo staff photo by Kelly Blanchard)

Pass Tour of Homes

The Pass Christian's Historical Society's Annual Tour of Homes will be Sunday, May 4, 1:30-5 p.m. Included are five beachfront homes representing the ambience and architecture of 150 years of Gulf Coast living.

Houses on the tour include the home of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hammond. This gracious Colonial Revival home incorporates an antebellum dwelling (ca. 1850). While little is known of its early years it was owned by the Gilmore family of New Orleans for about 60 years. The present owners maintain the property in the old tradition of life at the Pass. (Open 1:30-4:30 p.m.)

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Williams, a raised Acadian-style cottage with gable roof was built in 1985 on the site of the Simpson home which burned in 1980. It was designed by New Orleans architect Monroe Labouisse Jr. with adaptations by the owner. The builder was Robert Amoss.

The house fits in beautifully with the older homes around it and takes advantage of the Gulf breezes with high ceilings and French doors. (Park and enter on St. Louis Street one block north of Hwy. 90).

BY BETSY GAGNET

An apparent murder/suicide pact has taken the lives of two young people from Mississippi.

The bodies of Kieu Mythi Nguyen, 17, of Pass Christian and Glenn Nathaniel Pearce, 21, of Brandon, were found Sunday in the bathtub of a motel in Slidell.

Slidell Police Chief Ben O. Morris said an investigation revealed Pearce, a former student at St. Stanislaus, shot Nguyen, a junior at Our Lady Academy, two times in the chest with a .38 caliber revolver, before killing himself. Pearce is the third person from the SSC Class of 1995 to commit suicide.

The St. Tammany Parish Coroner's preliminary report ruled the incident a murder/suicide.

"In our investigative opinion they decided to go together," Morris said. "It was a cooperative deal."

Both bodies were found fully clothed in the bathtub of the motel room.

A towel had been laid out in the bathtub and Nguyen was found on top of the towel with her legs straight out. Pearce was found with a gunshot wound to his head lying face up at the other end of the tub.

Morris said the only note found at the scene gave directions to a car parked in the parking lot of a New Orleans hotel.

No drugs or alcohol were found on the scene and identification was laid out, according to police.

Stroller recall

In cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), Century Products Company of Macedonia, Ohio, is voluntarily providing a free repair kit for about 168,000 Travelite SPORT Strollers, model number 11-171, 11-181, and 11-191 manufactured February 1996 through October 1996.

Some stroller fold locks may break causing the stroller to fold unexpectedly if the front wheels of the stroller hit a curb or other stationary object. Additionally, some of the strollers have a restraint buckle that may unlatch.

Century has been notified of some minor injuries as a result of these issues.

Century is offering a free repair kit consisting of fold lock reinforcements and a replacement buckle. Consumers can easily install these parts at home.

The strollers were sold nationwide for about $60 to $80. The model number and manufacture date are located on the side tubing of the stroller. Only SPORT Stroller Models 11-171, 11-181 and 11-191 are part of this retrofit campaign. Other Travelite Stroller models have different fold locks and are not affected. Additionally, no Pro-Sport 4-in-1 stroller or any Century 4-in-1 stroller is included in this campaign.

Consumers may call 1-800-944-0039 for a free repair kit and installation instructions or write to Century Products Company, 9600 Valley View Road, Macedonia, OH 44056.

Dear Patients and Friends:

Headaches are common ailments affecting many individuals every day of their lives. Professional help is seldom sought for headaches, although millions of Americans spend countless dollars on headache remedies, even though usually they get little or no relief from them. And the headache usually keeps occurring.

Chiropractors believe that drugs do not cure and do not prevent headaches. Although they may relieve pain, they certainly do not remove the cause of the pain, and may even bring about undesirable side effects. A headache may be considered as a sign that something is wrong within the body; the pain is a warning signal. But taking something like a painkiller to disguise the pain would be like disconnecting the oil light in your car whenever it flashes.

The body is controlled and regulated through the nervous system and, if a spinal nerve is pinched or blocked, the body will become diseased or malfunction. A headache, for example, could be the result of a situation like this. When one or more of the tiny positions, headache troubles may result.

When you are in pain and in doubt as to its cause, contact your Doctor of Chiropractic. Find out what's causing those headaches and, instead of covering up the pain, try for a cure!

Europa board challenge defeated; Hilton merger plans move ahead

BY ED LEFOMA

A whopping 77 percent of Europa Cruises Corp., shareholders have voted to retain the present three-person Board of Directors.

The results mean that Europa intends to continue on its course in attempts to join in a venture with the giant Hilton Gaming Corporation to develop the Casino World gambling resort off Interstate 10, south of Diamondhead.

Deborah A. Vitale, chairman of Europa's Board of Directors said, "The vote demonstrates the shareholders' overwhelming support for and confidence in the current Board."

Prior to the May 18 annual meeting of the Board, a group of disgruntled stockholders calling themselves, "The Committee to Improve Stockholders Value" informed shareholders that they would wage a proxy battle to unseat Vitale, Board President Lester Bullock and third director, Piers Hedley.

The movement was led by Peter J. Catalano, a major New York stockholder. Later Charles H. "Kip" Reddian, who has been leading the Diamondhead project, resigned to join in the fight.

Plans were to name Reddian to the board, along with Catalano, Stephan A. Fitch, John Al Glassey and Paul Wells.

Reddian said his resignation was "a gamble" on his part, but declared he could not work with the present board.

Europa reported that a total 21,005,735 shares voted. Of those, 16,130,649 or 76.8 percent voted to retain the incumbent board. A total 4,755,433 shares or 22.6 percent voted for the opposition slate. A total 119,333 shares were withheld, which mean they abstained from voting.

"Both the large and small shareholders of this company have spoken," said Vitale.

"They have soundly rejected any attempt to unseat the current Board...the Board intends to honor the mandate it has been giving by moving forward."

Catalano, who said he represented shareholders who own approximately 20 percent of Europa's stock, said even though his slate lost, "We feel it's still been a victory for the stockholders."

"I think we pointed out the major issues, and we have the current management's feet to the fire," said Catalano.

He said he margin of victory pales "when you realize that 8 million shareholders or roughly 28 percent did not vote."

"Either they did not have time or they are disenfranchised to the point they they didn't feel their vote would make a difference," said Catalano.

He said his defeated slate of candidates was "keeping our options open" and would seek advice from attorneys.

Shortly after Reddian stepped down, Vitale announced that Europa has hired Werlin Ladner, a former Hancock County Planning Commissioner, to serve as Director of Governmental Relations for Casino World Inc. Reddian's title had been Chairman and Chief Executive Officer for Casino World.

Ladner has been working as a consultant on the project for the past two years, and Vitale said he had been instrumental in assisting the gambling venture through the permitting process.

"The Diamondhead project continues to enjoy the support of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors," said Vitale. "All remaining permit-related matters are being handled by the company's Mississippi attorneys, Mississippi engineers and Mississippi environmental consultant."

Bullock added, "The Mississippi project continues to move forward on the permit side and on the negotiating side. I am pleased to have Mr. Ladner join the company on a full-time basis to provide the governmental liaison required for our Diamondhead project."

Europa is currently in negotiations with Hilton to develop Casino World. In its agreement to enter into exclusive negotiations with Hilton, Europa was paid $400,000 up front and the current board agreed to give Hilton majority ownership, control and management of the $200 million gambling complex in the event an agreement is reached.

The outcome of the proxy battle was made public Tuesday as the state Commission on Environmental Quality opened a full-scale evidentiary hearing in Jackson on both the Casino World project and the Circus Circus gambling complex planned half a mile east in Harrison County off the Kiln-DeLisle exit of Interstate 10.

Citizens and environmental groups are trying to convince the CEQ to reverse a 4-1 vote last January that granted both projects water quality permits. The permits are needed in order for the developers to get federal permits to build in wetlands.

Both sites have also won approval from the Mississippi Gaming Commission and the Commission on Marine Resources.

A CEQ attorney said that agency is expected to make a decision on the facts presented at the hearing during their meeting scheduled May 22.

BY BETSY GAGNET

When a teen suicide occurs, parents everywhere begin wondering what went wrong and how to prevent it from happening to their child.

Vicki Revell-Smith, a Mental Health Clinician at Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, said it is important to listen to your child and take what he or she says seriously.

"Sometimes suicide is contagious," Revell-Smith cautioned. "It can almost be a chic thing."

It is especially important to keep a watchful eye on a child who was close to someone who committed suicide.

"If I had a child whose friend committed suicide, I would get my child into counseling," Revell-Smith said.

If the child is unwilling or unable to talk to a professional counselor, Revell-Smith suggested a priest or minister or teacher the child trusts.

One of the frightening things, according to Revell-Smith, is there are more kids who want to commit suicide than actually do. She said the kids who talk about it are crying for help.

Certain signs from a child may indicate a problem which should be addressed, explained Revell-Smith.

These signs include major personality changes, such as an usually easy going child becoming moody, or a child becoming angry or self-destructive.

Falling grades are another sign as is any involvement with drugs or alcohol.

Revell-Smith said sometimes children will begin saying things away or write poetry.

"Be aware of their changes and what's going on with them," Revell-Smith said. "Be more active in their lives."

Fairly common statements from kids such as "I wish I were dead," or "I hate you and I wish I'd never been born," may be a sign of something wrong and Revell-Smith urges parents to get the child counseling to address whatever is going on in the child's life.

"They may be idle threats, but they should be taken seriously," she said.

In today's world there may be more pressure than ever on kids.

Revell-Smith said peer pressure is enormous and schools have gangs and drugs.

Even parents themselves can create pressure for a child by unloading parental worries on them.

"Parents today give their kids much more information than they need to know," Revell-Smith said. "Kids don't need to be burdened with (their) parents' problems."

The important thing for parents to do for their kids is to seek help if they think there is a problem.

"People are sometimes embarrassed to have kids put in the hospital," Revell-Smith said. "I'd rather be embarrassed than have a kid dead."

Shoreline protection

Funds for the construction of a shoreline erosion protection wall have been approved by the Army.

The Project Cooperation Agreement (PCA) between the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the Department of the Army allows for the construction of the Bay St. Louis Seawall.

The 1,000-foot long concrete and steel sheetpile bulkhead will be built parallel to the Beach Boulevard seawall.

A total project cost is estimated at $445,100, with $289,400 of that amount being supplied by the federal government.

The construction contract is scheduled to be awarded in May.

tion center learned about it through the newspapers. She wanted to know why supervisors didn't notify people in advance of ordering appraisals. She questioned where architects and the committee came up with estimated costs of construction and for land acquisition.

Smith also objected to plans to house juvenile detainees for the Immigration and Naturalization Service in any Hancock facility, if one is built.

After the vote to rescind, Sheriff Ronnie Peterson told supervisors, "I'll take the heat."

He explained that the committee and architect came up with the sites and construction costs, but the plans weren't to take all the land that might have been appraised.

He said it was his feeling that costs could be held down by locating the facility next to the jail and operational costs would be lowered by housing INS juveniles.

"These were just recommendations. Nothing was etched in stone," said Peterson.

He showed his frustration by announcing to supervisors he was resigning from the site selection committee, and asked: "Where do we go from here? What do you want me to do?"

"We need a juvenile detention facility in this county, and we need it now," said Peterson. "If we get involved in some kind of lawsuit because some juvenile is released and hurts somebody, the sheriff's not to blame."

Peterson also pointed out that adjoining Harrison County is under a federal mandate to spend $3.1 million on a new 40-bed juvenile detention center, and last February the county was sued over a teenager's death at the old 20-bed facility.

Board President Philip Moran, District 1 Supervisor Jeop Ladner and District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour said it was always their feeling that the juvenile facility should be located outside the city.

"We need some space — about a 40-acre tract," said Seymour. "Maybe we could build the courthouse on it too, but we can't keep piling up things downtown."

However, supervisors balked at Smith's request to adopt a resolution stating once and for all that the facility would not be located downtown.

Gex told citizens the board can't make promises past their four-year terms, and couldn't commit a future board to the promise.

And, District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman told the group, although he was never in favor of the site, "I can't tell you're safe from now on."

Jeff Nancarius, who owns one of the cottages on Railroad Avenue, said a friend called him while he was working on a project in Washington, D.C. to tell him his home might be in harm's way.

He said since hearing the news, he has had many anxious moments and has spent considerable money to return to Bay St. Louis to join the opposition against the downtown site.

Nancarius said he has already invested money in the house, and wondered whether he should continue to do so. He wanted some guarantee that his house would not be taken by eminent domain.

Coward said, "I'll make a personal commitment, as long as I'm on the board, I won't touch your house."

Pastor Van Carpenter and several trustees of Main Street United Methodist Church were in the audience.

Carpenter told supervisors the church had spent a considerable amount of money to build a parking lot, and it is an asset to the downtown area.

He said taking the lot, "Would be the end of the church," (which is over 100 years old).

He said church goes, as well as visitors and shoppers to the area are free to use the facility.

Seymour and Pullman both suggested a workshop meeting May 5 with the site selection committee, and Pullman told the Sheriff he hoped he would attend, but Peterson did not respond.

The entire debate lasted almost an hour, and on the way out Smith was still fuming that she could not get a commitment from supervisors that a juvenile facility wouldn't be located downtown.

"You can't get them to commit to anything," said Smith. "They're like a bunch of all-thering snakes."

On the way out, Dorothy Brown talked to the Echo, and said, "Town and Justice are at 112 Second Street and I had 10 new businesses that want to come in, but they wouldn't come in if this facility was downtown."

She said the facility would interfere with the viability and the family environment of the historic downtown area because it would draw "more juveniles and their dysfunctional families" into the area.

"We don't want the scumbums, like the ones now hanging out in front of the Justice Facility, downtown," said Brown.

nacular cottage enclosing an earlier four-room house with a central chimney. The pergola-like porte-cochere and side porch were added about 1930. The present owner has renovated the interior into a lovely and more spacious floor plan.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Kimble's charming one-story frame cottage began as a "Creole" working-man's home probably dating from the 1840's. The original house had only four rooms with a kitchen in a separate building. Two outbuildings and a two-room school house were added later.

Subsequent owners connected the outbuildings to the house, enclosed galleries and added lean-to rooms out of proportion to the house. In 1990 the present owner undertook major restoration work to make the house more livable and the overall proportions more in keeping with the scale of the original structure.

The Home of Mr. and Mrs. Jan van Meerveld is a significant one-and-a-half story frame Neo-Classical Colonial with generous seven-bay veranda on three sides of the central dwelling with flanking wings.

Coupled columns frame the entrance-way and the pair of entry doors with transoms. This lovely home was completely remodeled to its present state from a neglected mansard-roofed Second Empire dwelling in 1985. Refreshments will be served at this home from 1:30-5 p.m.

Donations are $10 for adults, $8 for children, including tour and refreshments. On the day of the tour tickets will be available at the Pass Christian-Historical Society, 302 E. Scenic Drive and at any of the five tour homes.

Advance tickets will be available at Morning Market, 101 E. Scenic Drive, Pass Christian, Bookends Bookstore, 111 Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis; The Walter Anderson Museum, 501 Washington Avenue, Ocean Springs and Beaucoup Books, 5415 Magazine Street, New Orleans.

Proceeds are used to support the Pass Christian Historical Society, which seeks to improve the city by identifying and encouraging the preservation of historic structures and by creating greater awareness of the city's background.

Pass Christian is one of Mississippi's early resort cities and was first settled by the French during the 17th century. The city derives its name from the channel or pass which runs between the barrier island and the coast.

The name Pass Christian originated from the French settler Christian L'Adnier, who lived on Cat Island off the coast and then the mainland in the early 1700's. Present land ownership stems from land grants issued by the State of Mississippi beginning in 1830.

The tour homes are located at 629 E. Scenic Dr., 635 E. Scenic Dr., 313 E. Scenic Dr., 706 W. Beach Blvd., and 716 W. Beach Blvd.

Morris said as best as could be pieced together, the couple checked into the Slidell hotel on Saturday and then apparently went to the Jazz Fest in New Orleans.

Motel personnel confirmed the couple returned to Slidell Sunday morning and asked for a late checkout at the motel front desk, Morris said.

Police reported sometime around 12:30 p.m. a maid attempted to gain entrance to the room to clean it up and discovered the chain was on.

A second attempt to clean the room was made around 4:30 Sunday afternoon. When the chain was discovered still on and no response came from inside, maintenance was called to open the door, and the bodies were discovered.

Nguyen served as treasurer of the OLA Student Council for the 1995-96 school year. She was awarded the Most Outstanding Senator of the Youth Legislative Senate in Jackson last year.

Pearce attended St. Stanislaus and was scheduled to graduate in the spring of 1995, but left school before he graduated and earned a GED. While a student at Stanislaus, he participated in the Barbershop chorus, the school band, quiz bowl, drama club and was on the honor roll.

Brother Donnan Berry, S.C., Principal of St. Stanislaus said, "We are all in the doldrums over (the incident)."

At the time of his death he was attending Hinds County Community College.

A memorial mass for Nguyen was held Monday at OLA.

School officials refused all media inquiries.

Counselors were available to OLA students Tuesday at the school.

Incident at Waveland Kmart ends peacefully

BY RICHARD MEEK

A Waveland man who had climbed atop Kmart on Saturday and threatened himself and others with a shotgun was talked down without any further incident.

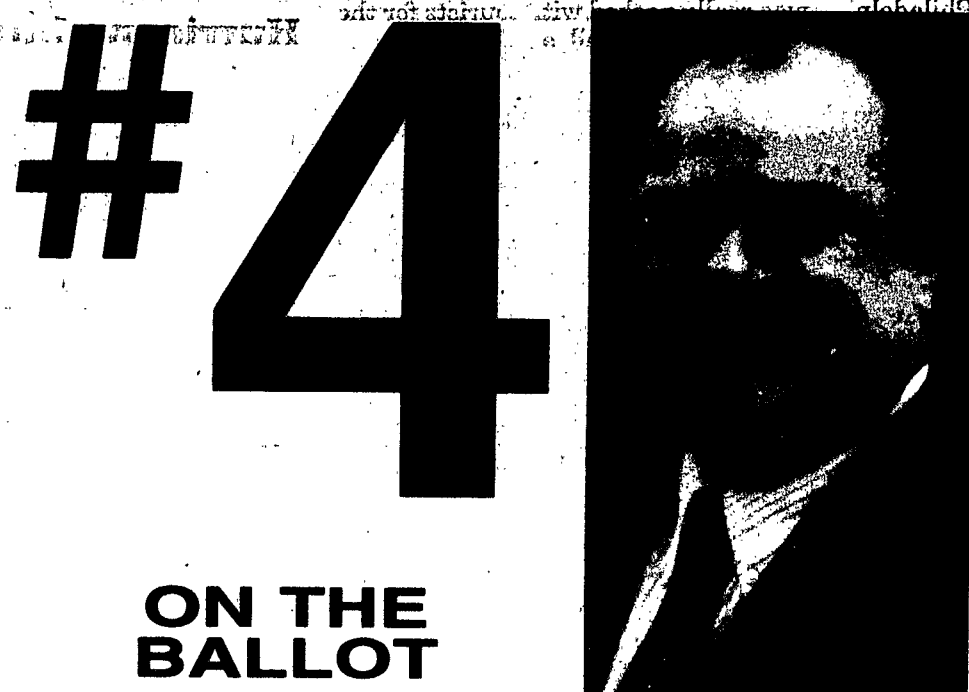

Bay St. Louis Assistant Police Chief David Stepro was able to talk down Woody Franks, with the help of Franks' mother, nearly two and a half hours after Franks had positioned himself on the roof of Kmart. Stepro is a trained negotiator.

Franks, said Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell, was threatening people with a gun, and further stated that if anyone attempted to get him down, he would detonate two bombs allegedly planted in unknown locations.

The Hancock County Special Operations Department, made up of officers of all three county law enforcement agencies, was called in, as well as the Keeler Air Force Base bomb dogs.

Franks, who lives in the Oak Park apartments in Waveland, was taken to Memorial Hospital in Gulfport for psychiatric evaluation. No charges have been filed.

Varnell said all of the stores in the Choctaw Plaza were evacuated during negotiations. "I was pleased with the way everyone responded," Varnell said. "We have good personnel and good resources, and we used them. We had it all covered. "I am thankful it all came together, and that no one was hurt."

More effective lithotripsy services

Hancock Medical Center now offers lithotripsy, a safe and effective non-surgical treatment of kidney stones. A mobile lithotripsy unit is available on alternate Mondays by appointment, according to urologist Thad Carter, MD of Coast Urology Center. Lithotripsy uses high focused shock waves to disintegrate stones in the kidney or ureter. They can then be passed through the body's urinary system. The process replaces a surgical incision to remove the stones, and the subsequent hospital stay and lengthy recuperation period.

The lithotripsy procedure takes anywhere from 15 minutes to an hour, said Dr. Carter, and anesthesia requirements vary from patient to patient. It is successful in the treatment of kidney stones in approximately 95 percent of cases.

The unit, which costs approximately $1 million, rotates among various hospitals in Mississippi and Louisiana.

For information, contact Coast Urology Center at 467-0497.

Debbie Reynolds to perform

BAY ST. LOUIS
The star of more than 30 motion pictures, two Broadway shows, two series, as well as dozens of television appearances, is making her way to the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Debbie Reynolds performs Thursday, May 8 at Casino Magic's Magic Dome in Bay St. Louis. Perhaps she is best known for her acting career, starting in "How the West Was Won," "The Tender Trap," "Tammy and the Bachelor," "Goodbye Charlie," and more. Her recording of "Abba Dabba Honeymoon" (from "Two Weeks With Love") and "Tammy" both sold more than a million copies. In the mid-1960's Reynolds put together her first nightclub act, which debuted at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas.

In the years since, she has been a headliner on the casino circuit from Reno and Tahoe and Las Vegas to Atlantic City to the famed London Palladium, as well as in concert in every major American city touring on the average of 42 weeks a year.

Since the late 1960's she has also been actively involved in a project close to her heart, the collection and preservation of memorabilia from Hollywood's first half-century of film making, gathering thousands of costumes, props and mementos of Hollywood's studios and their greatest stars.

Her dream to one day establish a Hollywood Motion Picture and Television Museum is finally coming true. Reynolds owns a property in Las Vegas just off the Strip, named "The Debbie Reynolds Hollywood Hotel and Casino." This will also house her collection, the largest individual collection of Hollywood memorabilia.

Tickets are on sale now for this one-night show for $15, $20 and $25. Tickets may be charged by phone by calling TicketMaster or by calling Casino Magic at 1-800-562-4425. Tickets may also be purchased at the Casino Magic Gift Shop. Showtime is 8 p.m.

Little Texas to appear at Biloxi Grand Theatre

Grand Casino Biloxi and Biloxi Grand Theatre bring Little Texas to the stage for a hand-clapping, knee-slapping good time Saturday, May 3 at 9:30 p.m.

Little Texas is another country music group to leap into the hearts of the American public. With their amazing success story, this band has paid its dues and is now in for the long haul.

Little Texas played in its first Nashville club for an audience of only 10. Shortly after, in 1989, they signed a contract with Warner Bros. Records. They began headlining sold-out arenas and playing for crowds of over 16,000 people. Their most recent career milestone was Little Texas, their fifth album.

Since Little Texas' major label debut a little over a half decade ago, the band has already had an incredible run. They've emerged as one of the most popular ensembles in contemporary country music, racking up a string of number one hits, including What Might Have Been, God Blessed Texas, and My Love. Other favorites include Loud and Proud, Kick A Little, The Call and All In The Line of Love.

Along with platinum and gold records and three Grammy nominations, they've garnered the prestigious trophies from

Radio & Records "Group of the Year," CMT "Group of the Year" and "Video of the Year" and the Academy of Country Music 1994 "Vocal Group of the Year."

For ticket reservation for the May 3 performance, call the Biloxi Grand Theatre Box Office (1-800-WIN-2-WIN). Tickets are $20/floor and balcony and are also available at all TicketMaster outlets.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1997

Impact of gaming on Coast study results to be presented

During his keynote address at the Southern Gaming Summit in early May, Frank Fahrenkopf, president and CEO of the American Gaming Association, will release the results of a new micro economic impact study conducted by Arthur Andersen & Co. that examines the effects of gaming in three U.S. jurisdictions.

Fahrenkopf's speech will unveil the study's findings, which reveal the economic impact of gaming in Joliet, Ill.; Bossier City/Shreveport, La.; and Gulfport/Biloxi areas where gaming has been operational since 1992.

Economic Impact of Gaming in the United States, Volume 2: Micro Study is the second part of an Arthur Andersen study. The first part, Economic Impacts of Casino Gaming in the United States, Volume 1: Macro Study, examines the economic impacts of casino gaming on the economy of the United States, which Fahrenkopf released in December 1996 at the American Gaming Summit.

The focus on specific regions new to the gaming industry will continue to "shine the light on the industry," Fahrenkopf said in his speech at the American Gaming Summit.

"When we do that, it will be much easier to overcome the half-truths and full lies that too many people believe about our industry."

The Southern Gaming Summit is being held May 6 and 7 at the Gulf Coast Coliseum and Convention Center in Biloxi. In addition to Fahrenkopf, who will speak the morning of May 7, other keynote speakers include the Speaker of the Mississippi House of Representatives, Rep. Tim Ford; Harrah's Entertainment chairman Philip Satre; Casino Magic chairman Marlin Torguson; Casino America chairman Bernard Goldstein; Horseshoe Gaming president Paul Alanis; and Boyd Gaming president Don Snyder.

Held annually, the Southern Gaming Summit attracts the most important casino executives, developers and representatives of Native American tribes from every Southern and Midwestern state, as well as gaming attorneys, legislators, regulators, portfolio managers and the media.

The extensive exhibit floor at the Southern Gaming Summit, which is already sold out, will be the showplace for the latest products available from gaming's largest and most innovative slot manufacturers, gaming vendors and hotel and restaurant suppliers, as well as the casinos that exhibit to remain high-profile in today's competitive marketplace.

Special events at the 1997 Southern Gaming Summit will include a "Taste of the Gulf Coast Casinos" keynote dinner, sponsored receptions, and tours of local casino resorts for investors.

An extensive array of seminars is designed to educate and inform. Just some of the titles covered at the Summit are: the Mature Regulatory Process, Marketing in the South and Midwest, Themed Restaurants, Tribal Gaming in the South and Midwest, Slot Operations, Media Relations, Casinos and the Environment, Designing Riverboats and dockside Casinos, and other issues, as well as sessions on the latest developments on the Gulf Coast and the Mississippi River, in Tunica, Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Louisiana and Mexico.

In addition, Bear Stearns & Co. will offer financial presentations by some of the most innovative and aggressive gaming companies active in the South and the Midwest.

Attendees of the Southern Gaming Summit can also obtain copies of the recently released Bear Stearns Global Gaming Almanac, a comprehensive review of the gaming industry in the U.S. and around the world.

For information on attending the Southern Gaming Summit, call 1-800-559-2695.

State unemployment inches up

During the month of March, Mississippi's unemployment rose slightly to 5.8 percent of the civilian labor force.

"Despite the 0.1 percentage point increase since February, this rate is 0.5 percentage points below the 6.3 percent reported for March 1996," said Raiford Crews, chief of Labor Market Information (LMI) for Mississippi Employment Security Commission (MESC).

Crews further said, "The growth of Mississippi's civilian labor force continued in March, numbering 1,276,400 individuals." This number represents 1,202,700 employed and 73,700 unemployed individuals which is an increase of 21,900 since March 1996. There are also 5,700 less unemployed than during March 1996.

1,092,500 nonagricultural wage and salary jobs were furnished by Mississippi employers during March 1997 — an increase of 5,200 jobs from February 1997 and a healthy increase of 14,100 jobs since March 1996. This gain over the year resulted from a 5,200 decrease in goods producing industries and a 19,300 increase in service producing industries. The largest growth industries were services with 11,400 increase and government which increased by 5,600.

"As floodwaters leave Delta farm lands, further growth is expected in the economy," Crews said. "We also expect continued growth in the service sector with only seasonal fluctuations as educational services move into the summer vacation period." Overall 1997 is expected to be a good year.

Edward Jones to host National Career Day

Craig W. Foster, the local investment representative for Edward Jones, announced that the office will participate in Jones' National Career Day Tuesday, May 6.

The event will feature a program to be broadcast live over the firm's satellite network. The program, which will air twice, will examine opportunities and challenges offered by a career with Edward Jones.

"Edward Jones is truly different from other Wall Street firms; we offer our investment representatives unique opportunities," Foster said.

"We're looking for entrepreneurial people who have a desire to run their own business with the support of a much larger organization. Our investment representatives live in the communities where they work, serving individual investors exclusively."

In a time when many U.S. businesses are experiencing zero growth or are actually downsizing, Edward Jones is aggressively expanding its salesforce. "Edward Jones has more than 3,500 offices in 50 states; our goal is to have 10,000 offices by 2004," Foster said. "Our investment representatives come from diverse backgrounds. Teachers, bankers and engineers have all joined the ranks of Edward Jones. They all, however, have one thing in common: They are self-starters who enjoy working with and helping other people."

Jones offers an extensive training program for new brokers. As part of that training, Jones representatives build their businesses by calling on people face to face in the communities where they have chosen to put down roots.

"We want our new brokers out where people can take their measure and decide if they are the kind of people they want to do business with," Foster said.

Edward Jones was founded in 1871. Its investment representatives offer insured tax-free bonds, mutual funds, certificates of deposit and the common stock of companies with histories of sound management and solid performance.

If it Quacks Like a Duck...

It used to be that banks and credit unions were very different animals. While banks serve a broad cross-section of Americans — and pay taxes — credit unions were established to serve defined groups (such as workers at the same factory) and are subsidized by your tax dollars.

Lately, many larger Credit Unions have stepped outside of the "common bond" of connected customers and signed up just about anyone, which means they operate just like banks, except with fewer Federal regulations and no taxes. If credit unions want to grow outside their chartered membership definition, they should pay taxes.

If you are concerned about the misuse of this billion dollar annual tax subsidy, contact your Congressional Representative.

To do otherwise would be "ducking" their responsibilities.

Credit unions that want to be like everyone else... should pay taxes like everyone else.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1997-11

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

St. Stanislaus Jay Ladner walked among basketball giants this past weekend, not only as a student, but as a peer also.

Ladner was the only high school coach asked to speak at the 12th annual Converse Coaches' Clinic held at the Holiday Inn in Fort Walton Beach, Fla. Ladner was on a clinic staff that featured some of the game's greatest minds, including Indiana coach Bobby Knight and Arkansas boss Nolan Richardson.

"It was a big thrill to be the only high school coach," a relaxed Ladner said following his 90-minute presentation on zone offense.

"This is one of the biggest honors I've had in coaching," added Ladner, who has guided the Rocks to a 107-88 record in six seasons.

Ladner was asked to be one of the presenters several months ago by Joe Dean Jr., son of LSU Athletic Director Joe Dean. Ladner said he was "very much honored" by the request.

"I was thrilled because of the people on the staff and that (Dean) thought enough of me to be included," he said.

If being on the same staff with the likes of Knight, Richardson, and Tulsa coach Dave Ellis was not already intimidating, Ladner was originally scheduled to speak after Richardson and before Knight, who between them have four national championship rings, and who consider the NCAA playoffs their personal playgrounds.

"At first, I didn't think about that," he said. "But the more I thought about it, I began to get a little nervous."

Also thrown into the mix was an audience that included over 500 high school and college coaches from throughout the Southeastern United States.

"I just tried to take a simple approach," Ladner said. "I prepared and gave it my best shot."

"I've spoken at camps before, and in front of civic groups, but I've never done anything like that. It's never easy talking to people you look up to as coaches."

As it turned out, Richardson was detained in Birmingham, Ala., because of mechanical problems on his flight, so Ladner spoke in his spot.

Two hours later, when Knight took centerstage, Ladner was in the front row, pen in hand, ready to take notes from a coach he had long admired.

"It took a little while just to realize Bobby Knight was right here," Ladner said. "I had never met him, or heard him talk."

"But after you get over the awe of him being who he is, then you just listen to what he has to say. Some of the things he said reinforced what we are already doing. He does say things to make you think."

Although obviously battling a few butterflies before his presentation, Ladner was deserving of what was certainly a prestigious honor. Ladner, son of high school coaching legend J. Larry Ladner, has resurrected the Rocks from the dredges to the upper level, if not the elite, of Class 4A.

SSC has won two District 7,4A titles during his reign, and two years ago advanced to the state semifinals in Jackson. This past season, however, was probably his greatest coaching performance.

The Rocks were decimated by graduation, and only one returning player, forward Matt Kopfler, had any varsity experience. Despite the shortcomings, Ladner still managed to coax a 21-10 season out of his young troops.

"Being (at the clinic) is an affirmation of the past several years," he said. "It is recognition of the things we have been able to accomplish the past few years. I owe a lot to (assistant) coach (Jerry) Spell, the players and the people at St. Stanislaus."

"This brings attention to St. Stanislaus and deservedly so. I feel a debt to Stanislaus, and am happy to represent them."

Missing from Ladner's mantle is state championship hardware. Some naysayers say Stanislaus' restricted enrollment hinders the Rocks' chances.

However, Ladner is quick to point out those same misguided sages said SSC could never win a district title or advance deep into the playoffs.

"Our goal every year is to win a state title," he said. "We will work hard to do that. If we don't, we are disappointed. But if you have done all that you could do, and fall short, there is no shame in that."

The clinic also gave Ladner some valuable exposure among college coaches and athletic, who at some point in the future may remember him when looking to fill a vacancy. Ladner is a young coach who is sure one day to hear the colleges come knocking.

No doubt, he will be a success in those ranks also.

*****

As a long-time Knight fan, I was equally thrilled to hear him speak. After a nearly two-hour presentation, one left with the impression that the man is a walking contradiction who commands attention.

Knight often used off-color anecdotes to drive home points. He admitted how tough he is on his players, some may think unreasonably so.

Yet, he later said how he always thinks of something nice to say about one of his ex-players when speaking to that ex-player's child. It is a compassionate side of Knight rarely seen. Rather, as viewers, we see only his chair-throwing, temper-tantrum moments on television.

Although some seemed offended by his sometimes crude remarks, when he started philosophy, and tactics, there was not an idle pen in the room.

Knight's only motivation is to win. For him to be successful as a coach, he knows he has to extract the best out of all of his players. Almost to a man, his ex-players admire the man they once hated, not only for turning them into winners on the court, but off of the court as well.

It was a lesson not lost on 500 of his peers.

SSC places second; Brown wins three events

Special to the Echo
The rain kept threatening all night until it finally poured during the last event at the Region 4 Class 4A track championships held at Hancock High School on Saturday. However, that did not put a damper on d'Iberville's bid for the boys regional championship.

The Warriors won the meet going away with 216 points while runner-up St. Stanislaus finished with 90 points. Bay High placed third with 54 points followed by George County 49 points, Oak Grove 47 points, St. Martin 19 points, and Picayune 14 points to round out the top seven. Greene County placed eighth with 13 points, followed by Hancock with 12 points, and East Central High School with 6 points.

The top four finishers in each event advance to south state competition this Saturday at d'Iberville High School.

SSC started the day off on a good note with Andy Brown winning the long jump with a school record leap of 22' 1 1/2". Also, James Benton of Bay High qualified with a third place leap of 21.7.

Perniciaro signs with Mobile

Bay High senior Michelle Perniciaro is shown signing a soccer scholarship with the University of Mobile as UM coach Uwe Tittle looks on. Perniciaro scored over 100 goals at Bay High, and was named the team's Offensive MVP for four years. She was named All-State this past year, and has been selected to play in the state all-star game later this summer. Perniciaro is the first female soccer player from Bay High to sign a scholarship. She will also receive a leadership scholarship from Mobile. Perniciaro, who plans to pursue a degree in nursing, was also captain of the Bay High football cheerleaders.

Rock coach speaks at clinic

BY RICHARD MEEK

Successful coaches may not always be the ones most skilled in tactics, but are those that are able to bring out the best in their players.

That was the message St. Stanislaus basketball coach Jay Ladner began with during a 90-minute presentation at the 12th annual Converse Basketball Coaching Clinic held last weekend in Fort Walton Beach, Fla.

Ladner, who has recorded over 100 wins in six years at SSC, spoke on zone offense. But he began his presentation to nearly 300 of his fellow high school and college coaches with some discussion of his own philosophy.

"The bottom line is the kids must play hard," said Ladner, the architect of two Division 7, 4A titles. "Players must play to their ability. That's one of the biggest challenges. That's where coaching comes in. That is what sets certain coaches apart."

"Hustle makes up for a lot of mistakes."

Ladner said he also wants his players to be educated about the game, and for his team to be as knowledgeable as the opposing coach.

"That's not possible," he admitted, "but you want them thinking why to do certain things."

He added that although not "all parents understand," some players are better offensively, and some excel on defense.

"Our best players will shoot and play the most," Ladner said. "The experience factor becomes crucial as the season wears on."

Ladner said he uses a two-pronged approach in attacking a zone defense. The first, he said, is that he wants his team to take only high-percentage shots.

"We want to work for as high a percentage shot as possible," he said. "The further you move away from the basket, the percentage will drop. You must work hard for a high percentage shot."

Ladner said he also stresses for his team to work the ball to the inside, theoretically more free throw opportunities.

"Our goal is to shoot more free throws," he said. "Our priority is getting it inside and drawing a lot of fouls. If get it inside, you are not as susceptible to the fast break."

Ladner added that a coach must be flexible to personnel. "Your scheme should reflect your personnel," he said.

Ladner was followed by Tulsa coach Dave Ellis and Indiana coach Bobby Knight.

Rocks place third in District golf

The SSC golf team's bid for a 5th consecutive district title fell short on Monday, April 21 at Hattiesburg Country Club.

Oak Grove finished first with a team score of 317, followed by Petal, 320, and SSC, 324.

Andy Jacobson shot a 73 followed by Chris Genin's 76. Jacobson and Genin will represent District 8 Division 7-4A at the state tournament May 5-7.

As low medalists Jacobson and Genin have been the Rocks' low scorers all season and will return next year. They have both developed their game tremendously and should fare well in the state 4A tournament," said Coach Genin.

Genin and the Rocks golf team would like to thank Mike Burke, golf pro at PCI, and all PCI members for their help and also The Bridges pro Joel Jacobson for allowing the team to further develop this year at their facilities.

Fish study to help better manage Gulf resources

A team of Mississippi State University scientists is up to some fishy research along the barrier islands of Mississippi.

The university's Science and Technology Research Center, located at Stennis Space Center, is conducting surveys at Cat, Ship and Horn islands to determine the fishing pressure, the number of fishermen and total hours fished, along with the number of species of fish caught.

Results of the three-year project, which began last October, will help the state better manage the fisheries of coastal Mississippi.

Researchers are interviewing fishermen twice a week and conducting aerial surveys three times each month. Sponsored by the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources, the project repeats an earlier study done in the 1970s.

"The main purpose for this study is to obtain additional data for better fisheries management," said Wendell Lorio, senior STRC research biologist. He said the surveys will be compared to the earlier research to determine whether present fishing regulations on the number of fish that can be caught per day and size limits need to change.

"We don't want to over-fish the resource, but there needs to be enough activity to make it a good fishery," said Lorio. "We're looking for the fine line where the most fish can be caught without damaging resources. At the same time, we don't want to waste fish by losing them to natural deaths because of inactivity."

Another advantage the project offers to fishermen is that it will provide information that will make their time in the water more successful. Not only will the study detail what species can be found at each island, but it will also indicate which island has the best fishing overall at different times during the year.

"When we complete the surveys, we'll have a very accurate statistical map of the fishing success in the area," said Lorio. "The information we provide through this project should be very useful for the fishermen who frequent those waters."
